In explaining his vote, Mr. Buxton, rep., objected seriously to the permanent disfranchisement thus proposed as being against the principles of free government. Such a law might influence partizan Judges to do a wrong for party ends.

second reading. The evening was spent to a great extent in the filibustering movements of the Republican members, who take advantage of all possible parliamentary strategies in order to delay legislation.—REPORTER.] A RUNAWAY .- The horse attached to the dray of John B. Hill, Esq., having a contract to run away once a week, yesterday evening carried out his contract for this week. Somewhere down Fayetteville street he succeeded in relieving himself of all of the dray except the front wheels, the driver having been dumped in a convenient gutter; he ran on the sidewalk in front of the Yarboro House with a view, we presume, of obtaining a Raleigh Favorite, but Ziegler being out, he passed with head erect and tail curling, upset a barrel of molasses in front of Allcott's, jumped into a box of lemons at Bradley's, scattered broadcast a lot of apples in front of Harrison's, slipped up on a unjust and calculated to work harm grape peeling as he reached the National Bank, and thus brought his mad career to a close. It is needless to say that the sidewalk was given up without question to this intruder, though really one or two narrow escapes were made from actual damage y several persons.

MATRIMONIAL,-Yesterday mornng at 9:30 o'clock, at Christ's Church, Rev. Dr. Marshall officiating, Mr. I. favored the proposition to exclude T. Dortch, of Goldsboro, led to the altar Miss Lucy Hogg, daughter of Dr. Thomas D. Hogg, of this city. The affair was of a most pleasant character, there being five couples passed and put it upon its third read- attending the bridal couple. Mr. Dortch and lady immediat'e; left for the North, and will visit the Canadas before returning home.

A PERTNIENT QUERY .- A cor respondent thus pertinently puts a practical question:

Mr. Editor :- Can you not induce our city fathers to require parties building, or otherwise obstructing the streets, to place a light of some kind in front of their work, as is the case in other cities, so that pedestrians may save their skins?

WAKE SUPERIOR COURT .- This Court was in session during the greater part of the day yesterday. The following cases were disposed of:

Found guilty. Judgment reserved. State vs. J. P. Davis and Wyatt

State vs. Moses Hinton, colored boy years of age, larceny. Submitted. Order of Court that the Clerk of the Court bind him out. State vs. Wm. Thorpe. Indicted for larceny. Defendant submitted. Sent to Workhouse.

A FIGHT AND ITS CONSEQUENCES. Pat Gailagher and Charles Johnson, citizens of Raleigh, succeeded yesterday in getting up their Irish blood and pitched into each other with an earnestness that told in its results .-When we saw them a short while afterwards Gallagher's nose, of which he had been deprived by contact with the teeth of his opponent, had been placed back into position by the skilful hands of Dr. Hines, while Dr. Towles was engaged in dressing the wounds upon the head of Johnson, in the hands of Gallagher. Neither party received fatal injuries. Their case will be heard before Mayor Manley this morning. Gallagher jocosely remarked, when viewing himself after his proboscis had been spliced, that accidents would occur in the best regulated families.

the filibustering done in the Convention day after day by the Radicals, motions upon which certain members from white counties do not care to go upon record are made by members from negro counties, and these motions are actually voted down by the Radicals themselves-the time thus being consumed in these dilatory motions. The people of North Carolina should know that whatever delay may be occasioned in the work of the Convention is due entirely to the workings of the Radical leaders who claimed they "would not stay here to spend the people's money. Every effort now made by the Democratic majority to pass an ordinance is met by every obstacle that can be ing to delay their operation. T. J. Walker's adv. appeared in issue of yesterday morning. The pressure that day opon our time and columns prevented any but a very brief notice of an establishment which, in its line, not only does credit to the taste and enterprise of the energetic proprietor, but is an honor to the city. With Mr. Walker the preparation of his cakes and his confectionery is a "fine art," and his establishment on Fayetteville street is well worthy the visit of the curious as well as those who are in search of delicacies. In neither case will the visitor come away disappointed. We commend

Mr. Walker to the liberal patronage of the public. FINE CHEESE. - Mr. Peter McConnell, of Orange, called on us yesterday, and left with us a sample of his fine cheese, a quantity of which he has left with Mr. A. H. Temple for sale. Mr. McConnell manufactures quite extensively about two miles east of Hillsboro, finding the soil well adapted to the grasses, and consequently facilitating dairy operations. His cheese is of superior quality, and he took the first premium at the State Fair last year. He has made entries for this year. NORFOLK AND PORTSMOUTH AND THE N. C. STATE FAIR .- The Norfolk Virginian of Monday says: A called meeting of the Norfolk and Portsmouth Cotton Exchange was held at their rooms yesterday at 12 M., with W. W.Gwathmey, Esq., the President, in the chair, for the purpose of considering the propriety of appointing delegates to represent the Exchange at the fifteenth annual exposition of the North Carolina Agricultural Society which commences

On motion, it was resolved to elect twenty delegates. A resolution was adopted also recommending that the merchants and nechanics of Norfolk hold a meeting for the same purpose.

The Elwood Case. We are always loth to advise in ases where the courts have already olemnly adjudicated. We are always reluctant to ask Executive clemency where crime apears to have been fairly and fully proved. There is already a sufficient tendency in the pardoning power to yield to its own impulses of tenderness or to the solicitations of the friends of one convicted of crime. Justice is often defeated, often cheated, often outraged, by unmanly weakness, or too feeble resistance to the appeals of friends.-A Governor need more often be sustained in his purposes to see justice executed than be encouraged in his tenderness toward the criminal. The Elwood case, however, presents features which seem to be exceptional. It appears to be one where the rules of evidence seem to have beed strained too rigidly against the accused. According to the view presented by our correspondent, (and they are founded not only upon his own observation, but that of distinguished lawyers, members of the jury and others, the main feature upon which the conviction was had, to wit, the presumption of malice, falls to the ground. The killing is not denied, but the essence of murder, malice, fails, We think therefore that his Excellency can safely yield to the views of our correspondent, and spare the life of the unhappy Elwood, either by unconditional pardon, or commutation of punishment:

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 6, 1875. To the Editor of the News: SIR:-It will be remembered that at the May term of Mecklenburg Superior Court, William Elwood, of Cleaveland county, was tried and convicted of the murder of Alexander

Sanford, on the 17th of May, 1874; and was sentenced to be hanged on June 18th.

An appeal was taken to the Supreme Court. The decision of the Court below was sustained, and at August term of that Court, the pris oner was sentenced to be hanged on October 8th, 1875-that is, day after to-morrow. Nothing now stands between Elnor of North Carolina. He alone can save the doomed man's neck. To him, then, the eyes of all are turned that feel an interest in the prisoner's

The Governor has been earnestly solicited to pardon the prisoner. Mon ster petitions from the citizens of Mecklenburg, Cleaveland, Rutherford, Lincoln and Gaston counties have gone up praying Executive clemency for the unfortunate man. Appeals are made to his Excellency's sympathies. He is beseeched to par-ion, or at least commute the sent-Will he do it? Ought he to do it? Ought he to interpose the Executive arm, and shild a convicted prisoner from the sword of the law?

I think he should. I believe that if Elwood suffers the death penalty, it will be the sword of the law strik ing down one who has never yet been found guilty of the crime wherewith he is charged. In my opinion-an opinion based upon a thorough knowledge of all the facts in the case, the evidence, the rulings of the Courts, &c., I believe that his execuion would be nothing less than JUDICIAL MURDER. Why? because the jury who convicted Elwco i say, in a paper earn-estly recomending his pardon: "We are firmly of the opinion that Elwood hould not suffer death. As jurors we had great doubt that the shooting was done in malice, and so told the court, but his honor instructed us that the law affixed the malice by presumption. But it was our duty to convict the defendant which we lid. But having vindicated the law, we now appeal to your excellency for his pardon,"

The twelve jurors sign this state-Is it possible that a man-a citizen of North Carolina, to suffer the awful ful death-penalty, when the jury who tried him, say they have great doubts as to his guilt? What becomes of that sacred principle of the law, that when there is a doubt-even the shadow of a doubt, as to the guilt of a prisoner, that the prisoner shall nave the benefit of that doubt? And that other principle so rooted in our udicial system, that it is better that ninety-nine guilty men should es-

These bulwarks of safety for innocent men seem to have been departed from in this case; and Elwood is to fall a victim to a bloody rule of evidence. The bar of Charlotte, including a learned ex-Judge and a distin-guished member of the Constitutional Convention, say they are familiar with the facts of the trial, and that "there are great doubts as to the existence of malice in the killing," that this is "a case where the strict administration of the law would probably work an injustice," and therefore they recommend his case as a proper one for the exercise of execu-

A half hour after the trial one of the jurymen told me that he did not believe Elwood guilty of murder: But he believed he killed Sanford accidentally; that he agreed to the verdict of murder because under the instructions of the court, he would not do otherwise; and that several other jurymen coincided with him in his opinion that the shooting was accidental and not done in malice. The prisoner is a victim of that barrule of evidence which implies malice, when the killing is with-

Such is the case. The duty of his

PRICE: FIVE CENTS.

Excellency it seems to me is plain He should give the doomed man the benefit of that Great Doubt which the jury entertained, and which entitled the prisoner to a verdict of acquist dat their hands; and that his Excellency in the exercise of the high power vested in him, would res-cue from the clutches of the law, the victim of a cruel rule of evidence Justice demands the pardon of Elewood. To hang a prisoner of whose guilt the jury has great doubt, would be judicial murder. Gov. Brogden has it in his power to save the Judi-cial annals of the State from such a stain. In pardoning Elwood, he would not be reflecting upon the judg-ments of the Superior court of Mecklenburg or of the Superior Court, for these Courts have simply enforced an old and inflexible, but none the less barbarous, rule of evidence.

Mr. James Corrie, Dentist, in Ealtimore, writes: "I have used Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup personally and in my family for two or three years, an i am prepared to say that there is nothing to compare to it as a remedy for Coughs, Colds, etc."

MALARIA-BREZDING FLOODS—The recent treamendous freshets which have flooded some of the most fertile low lands of the United States, have not only caused wide speat truin and disaster, but have, as might have been expected, been followed by an unprecedented outcrop of fever and ague, billious remittents, and other diseases of a malarial type. The sun's rays, acting upon the saturated vegetation and isolated pools left by the retiring waters, have exhaled a far-reaching miss—a, which is pregnant with disease. The most reliable safeguard against is is found to be Hossetter's Stomach Bittlers, the present demand for which, more particularly in the West and Southwest, where the floots have been more severe, exceeds any which has existed in the past, popular as the great national remely and preventive of malaria has always been. Never has it been put to such acrucial test, or its claims more conspicuously vindicated. MALARIA-BREZDING FLOODS -The re-

SENTIMENT ABROAD.

A valued correspondent from Stanly county says: "The people are very much interested in the doings of the Convention, and I am glad to say they are very much pleased with the amendments that have been made. I think they will ratify them by a very large majority."

With one or two more amendments perfected, we are sure that the work of the Convention will be enthusiastically endorsed throughout the State.

MANUFACTURING INTERESTS. The Wilmington Journal joins us do something for the advancement of the manufacturing interests. Nothing would more rapidly develope the resources of North Carolina than such encouragement, and nothing else would so powerfully conduce to her success in the race with Georgia and Tennessee.

The exemptions we know are open to objections, and we would avoid making any unfair discriminations. But we believe that the prosperity of and sensibly developed, that we are willing to try what has been followed by such fortunate results elsewhere. North Carolina is poor, in some senses; she will not become rich by treading always in old tracks.

THE STATE SENATE.

In the discussion of the question to reduce the number of Senators, it may be well to refer as a guide to the practice of other States. The number, at present 50, it is proposed to reduce to 24. We have shown that this is objectionable as depriving the West of all weight in the body. A reduction to 33, which is a fair average number, might be admissible.

In these States, it will be seen that the average number of Senators is 33, the highest being in Illinois 51, and the lowest in Delaware 9. The table will be a good guide for those who have the matter in

In our issue of yesterday morning there appeared a communication from a distinguished gentleman upon the question now before the Convention of doing that justice to the East which its condition so imperatively demands. The communication quietly rebukes us for the expression that the utterances of the Eastern journals were imprudent. That expression was only used in one sense. We do consider it imprudent to endeavor to carry by threat that which has not been fairly presented by fact or argument. Men whose minds are arrayed against a measure are little likely to be moved from their position by demonstrations upon their man-fast, though they be in error. Our correspondent, as the chamhood. They are more likely to stand pion of the East, relieves the demand of all its objectionable features. He presents facts which are undeniable. He arrays statistics which are incontrovertible. He exhibits a strength in the East which had not been acknowledged. And he arrays a force of burdens so unequally imposed, an oppression so systematically devised, a tyrranny so ingeniously inflicted, that the outcry of the East bursts forth as the irrepressible voice of a crushing ca-

Surely the West will hear, when the East speaks not in the tones of threat, but with the voice of warning; when she presents argument, and not declamation; when she arrays facts and figures, and not vague assertions or random statements. We hope the Convention will heed what has been so forcibly

A MOST IMPORTANT ORDI-NANCE.

The committee on Suffrage and Eligibility on Tuesday submitted an ordinance which will meet the unqualified approval, in one of its branches, of every honest man in the State, and in the other is open to not a solitary objection to those who regard the purity of the ballot. The first provides that no person who, upon conviction, or confession shall hereafter be adjudged guilty of felony shall be entitled to vote at any election under the laws of this State, unless such person shall be restored to the rights of citizenship in a mode prescribed by law."

The right of suffrage is one of the highest privileges exercised by the freeman. It is his right to participate in all the affairs of government, to direct all its operations, to regulate the imposition of taxes, to arbitrate upon the lives and property of his fellow-citizens. It is a right eminently in the power of society to in the appeal to the Convention to | bestow-equally in its power to regulate or withdraw. With its high privileges and powers, it is evident that it should be committed only to the charge of the honest and the intelligent. But the American system has been exceedingly liberal, and has exacted no qualification except that of residence and freedom from the stigmas imposed by conviction for

But the radical constitution of 1868, in its eagerness to bid for pothe State would be so immediately | pularity or to embrace in the fold of the radical party a class more than all open to the operations of the criminal law, removed all obstructions and gave to all, the honest man and the felon alike, this sacred right,

> The ballot is polluted by the presence at the polls of the convict fresh from the Penitentiary, ready to enter upon a new career of crime; of the prisoner from the county jail, his limbs still seared with the mark of his chains. Side by side, virtue and crime, well earned right, and justly forfeited privileges contend for the regulation of the affairs of State, the vote of this latter often. defeating the will of the other.

The bill, of course, meets with opposition from the Radical side of the House. It strikes at a class which is most prolific in its contributions to the annals of justice. It is contended that slavery is responsible for the criminality of the negro. It is then admitted that the negro is criminal from education, or want of it. If so, does his guilt, though due to his misfortune, give him a claim, which under the old constitution, and in the States north of us, was denied to the white man? Is the negro criminal more the object of indulgence than was the white one? But it was contended that while slavery was the mother of crime, emancipation would at once work the regeneration of the slave. The negro has now been his own master for ten years. He has had all the advantages of education possessed by the white. He has been under the strictest political tutelage. He has been led, caressed, counselled by his white friends, as never a people was before. Is he better from being his own master? Let the records of the Penitentiary, and of the county prisons answer the question.

And it is to elevate again the value of suffrage by making its possession the right of honesty and its deprivation the penalty of crime that it is supposed some check may be given to crime by drawing an ineffaceable distinction between vice and virtue. A law, too, applicable to the white as well as the black, and therefore impartial and open to no just complaint. It will be the fault alone of the black if, in a comparison of crime, thus preponderance shall be with his race.

Gen. Grant says he does not fear the triumph of the inflationists at the elections this fall. He will veto any bill repealing the act providing for the resumption of specie payments in 1879, and feels certain that a two-thirds vote can not be secured against his opposition in either branch of Congress.

A Spanish Sham.

The Convention and the People. A writer says: He who desires to know something of the real life of the Spaniard, and to feel accurately the pulse of the nation, would do well not to take up his residence at Madrid. That city, with its modern French airs, its crowd of Government hangers-on, has charms for two classes of Spaniards, and for two only. There are the Government officials, who, mindful of the fact that Spanish Ministers are, to say the least of it, shortlived, and conscious that down to well nigh the lowest ranks, the official's tenure of office expires with that of his chief's, seek only to make hay while the sun shines, and to prop up with all their power the Governent which gives them employment; and next the confirmed triflers and easure-seekers, of whom, Spanish and French, the capital is full. Trade, industry, religion, churches, houses of charity, the poor themselves, their realities too stern and disagreeable to be looked in the face—shadows which must not be suffered to pass, if but sufferings and struggles, these are a l through the medium of a newspaper advertisement, across the gay, sunny and unreal dream of life in the capital. Two very noble institutions for the poor of Madrid have lately been doing a very good work there; they are worked, and very well worked, by French Sisters of Charity. One, in the Calle Hortalina, trains some 200 destitute children. But I defy any one to find a single guide, of whatever nationality, among the hundred and one extortionate guides of Madrid, who has even heard of its existence. Life in the capital is a Queen Victoria at Home. The good motherly Queen dances in the hall of Balmoral with her retainers and household servants, makes her own tea when out on pienics, spins in the cottages of her ten-ants, and has herself photographed in the gracious act; bestows "warm flannel petticoats" on poor old wo-men with her own hands, and tells us all about it in her own book. The Prince of Wales, goes everywhere, dines with everybody, and drives a drag-for all the world as Ithough he were no greater man than the President of the United States. The new court dress for gentlemen is a simple half-military costume. Gaudy liveries are going out in high places, so that lackeys look less like lobsters and lizards than formerly, and I doubt not that long ere it is ready to fall to pieces from sheer old age, like the Deacon's ."one horse shay," the royal State coach will be remanded, Tritons and all, to that valhalla of old coaches, the first hall in the Kensington Museum, and the monarchs of England will cease to lumber along on wheels like to those of Pharaoh's charriot, but may drive through the streets of London, even on the grandest state occasions, with celerity, comfort and quiet elegance like other sensible well-to-do folk.—Grace Greenwood in the New York Times.

STOCK GAMBLING IN SCOTLAND. We learn that the Glasgow stock brokers have recently discovered a new method of speculation. They don't sell "short" or create "corners." but they buy and sell prospective dividends. The modus operandi is as follows: Mr. Jones pays Mr. Smith three per cent. for a future dividend on a railway stock. If the railway declares its dividend, Mr. Jones is the loser, and if the dividend is four per cent., Mr. Smith is the gainer. So extensively is this practice indulged in that the following circular has been issued by the Stock Exchange: "Ated large dealings in prospective dividends of certain railway companies, they think it right to express their disapproval of those transactions, and to declare that such cannot be recognized by them, or allowed to take place during the business meetings of the association."-Montreal Herald.

Death from a spider's bite is very rare in all countries, and one would not easily have believed it an event possible in France. But such an ac-cident has happened at Nimes, where a spider is not more feared in general than a cockchaffer. One species is known to be slightly poisonous, how-ever. A boy of thirteen years, working in the fields, felt a sudden pain in his foot. On looking, he saw the insect still clinging, and killed it. His foot swelled instantly, but the boy finished his day's work. At night he awoke with convulsions, his throat swelled so as to prevent utterance: he became insensible and died in the morning. The arachneologists of the South are now occupied in hot debate on the affair.

WANTED, PLAIN TALK .- A New York journal says: "The American newspaper reader demands of an editor that he shall not give him and discussions in heavy news chunks, but so condensed and clari-fied that he shall be relieved of the necessity of wading through a treatise to get at a fact, or spending time on a dilated essay to get a bite at an argument.

"My friend," said Rev. Mr. Ken-dall, of Concord, N. H., to a well-dressed young stranger, who had volunteered to stand by his horse while he stepped into a bank, "my friend I am obliged to you; and when you are as old as I am, and I am as young as you are, I will do as much for you." "But why don't you invite me in to drink?" was the reoinder to the astounded preacher.

A St. Louis doctor wrote a prescription for a lady who was slightly iii, calling for a "syphon of carbonic acid," meaning a large syphon bottle of soda water. The intelligent drug-gist construed "carbonic acid," to mean "carbolic acid," and took "syphon," to be the Latin for "two ounces," and acting on his convictions burned a hole in the patient's English papers tell of a tramp who, being arrested for stealing a goose, told the Judge that he had been lying asleep by the roadside; that it persis ted in following him, and that finally he took it up, only to return it to its owner. The Judge thought the yarn somewhat apocryphal, and the prisoner found his goose was cooked for thirty days in prison.

When one is overcome by the debilitating effects of the climate the system needs a slight stimulant. Th est medical authorities recommend the use of the celebrated Home Stomach Bitters as a tonic that will fortyfy the system against inroads of disease prevalent at this season of the year.

We understand that there is an old lady in Currituck who has pasted over a thousand medical receipts in a book during the past thirty-five years, has never been s.ck a day in her life. It is reported that she is getting discouraged and declares that some people are born to ill luck. An Arkansas woman lately tarred and feathered her husband, where-

We have seen and conversed with gentlemen from the Western and Southwestern counties of the State and are gratified to learn that the Convention is daily growing in pop-ularity. We are informed that every ordinance that has passed the Convention and every one that has been reported upon favorably by standing committees so far, is exceedingly popular with the people. A prominent lawyer who was in attendance upon Rutherford Court last week told us that he believed, if the question were submitted now, the Democrats would have no trouble in carrying that county. From Gaston county we learn that even Conservative church members who were very lukewarm in the canvass can scarcely refrain from swearing when Huffman's name is mentioned. There is no earthly doubt about it, the action of the Convention or rather of the Democratic majority of the same, is very popular with the masses and is daily growing more so, and it is their knowledge of this that is rendering the Radicals so furious and desperate. The disgraceful proceedings of the Radicals last Thursday is but the resuit of their coming to a knowledge of the popularity of the amendments passed.—Charlotte Observer.

The Hon. L. B. Mizner, of Solano, California, has spoiled that wellknown little story about General Taylor saying at Buena Vista, "A little more grape, Captain Bragg," Mizner was at a banquet of Mexican war veterans in San Francisco, the other evening, and made the following statement as to what General Taylor did say: "Holding the position of an interpreter on the staff of General Taylor, I was seated on my horse. immediately near him, when Cap tain Bragg dashed hurriedly up, luted the General and reported: General I shall have to fall back with my battery or lose it. Several of his guns had already been dismounted, a large portion of his horses killed, and about thirty of his men were prostrate on the heath. On receiving the report General Taylor turned on his horse and surveyed the situation for a few seconds—he required no field glass, for the scene of conflict was not far removed-and the reply was: "Captain Bragg, it is better to lose a battery than a battle." was the interview on which was based the famous slang phrase that was never uttered by the General to whom it was imputed. Captain Bragg returned to his battery with renewed determination, and by the efforts of that gallant officer and his brave command the tide of battle was turned and the greatest victory of the war

The Augusta (Ga.) Constitutionalist thus gives expression to its anticipations: 'We are disposed to believe that all Democratic elements will harmonize at the national convention, making a common cause against Radicalism and relegating the finanial question to a secondary place, leaving it to Congress for adjudication, where it properly belongs. But these New York marplots will bear watching. They have deceived us over and over again, and will rule or ruin if not summarily checked."

All the State officers and employees of Virginia from the Governor down, have agreed to set apart one day's pay for the purpose of erecting an equestrian statute to General Lee at
